Tr. 15'
The fragment shows a papyrus scroll with hieroglyphs. The text is arranged in horizontal lines. The fragment is labeled with '5'', '10'', and 'Tr. 15'' on the left side, indicating the vertical position of the text. The hieroglyphs are written in a cursive style, typical of ancient Egyptian papyrus scrolls. The fragment is a continuation of the previous page, as indicated by the title '62 (suite)'. The hieroglyphs are arranged in a grid-like pattern, with each line containing a series of characters. The fragment is a small portion of a larger scroll, showing the edges of the papyrus leaves. The hieroglyphs are drawn with fine lines, and the overall appearance is that of a well-preserved ancient document. The fragment is a valuable piece of evidence for the study of ancient Egyptian writing and papyrus scroll technology.
